Uganda's unique climate

Uganda has a wide range of conditions from flat dry plains to lush hill sides suitable for tropical organic fruits and vegetables. Uganda is famous for the natural fertility of its soils. Since these have not been degraded by intensive farming and fertiliser use, yields are high with excellent quality.

Organic fresh and dried produce

The pick of the crop is chosen from the best of our organic growers, graded and packed at the peak of freshness to reach our customers in perfect condition. New products are under development, using indoor indirect solar drying technology: dried Pineapple, dried Apple Bananas, dried Papaya, dried Mango, dried Ginger.

Product specifications

BioUganda Pineapples are traditionally grown without flower induction and are harvested "Ripe and Ready to Eat" when they have changed to a natural yellow or orange colour, we use no chemicals to degreen them.
